FORMER OFFICIAL WRECK VICTIM

"Our Town"

by J. B. WHITE

The main business of Cameron is to make it a good place in which to live. This means that our social and community life should include something for all. Children, especially, should be considered. Old men and old women, young men and young women, married and single folk, and every class and condition should have the thoughts of those who direct the destiny and development of Cameron.

What a prospect! Suppose every citizen should resolve no longer to seek an inferior imitation of bigness, but to round out Cameron like some perfect product. Why should we consider size alone as the measurement of the city's greatness? Why not direct our development along the lines of community progress along social, intellectual and social paths? It can be done and sooner or later some American city is going to do it, and will make for itself a name that will be heard around the world. This will not come from idle puffing and vainglorious bragging, but from the works that will proceed from the citizens that are born and reared here.

We speak of the output of farms and factories but seldom do we incline our thoughts towards the possible creations of the minds that might be developed in Cameron. The town that produces an Edison or an Einstein has done something for the world. The creation and blooming fruition of a Beethoven ought to take equal rank, in the minds of the people of Cameron with a small one horse factory devoted to the manufacturing of a cheap kind of varnish. Certainly there should be in our midst some effort to cultivate human beings, to bring them to perfection along various lines and make Cameron's contribution to humanity equally as profound as the addition of a payroll or erection of a bombastic new structure, devoted to the making of lingerie.

Why not take our noses out of the ecomomic puddle and tilt our chins at the skies? Why not cease trying to ape larger places and wallowing in their trail when the opportunity to do other things that are greater awaits any community, large or small? Why try for size alone when the lesson of life shows that mere bulk, in the long run, is its own undoing unless the brain improves?

We trust that some of our readers will do us the courtesy to think seriously along the line here presented. There is a distinct opportunity for us. Let us not become overly economic in our thoughts; let us face the great truth, realize that man shall not live by bread alone, and cease a policy which continues to over-emphasize the bread-winning side of life.

The Senate has approved a resolution providing for an inquiry into the financing of railroads and, as usual, there are hints that this will disturb business and harm that mysterious return of confidence that we have been told is necessary to prosperity all around the republic.

We fail to see where any investigation into the financing of railroads will disturb honest money lenders and conscientious bankers. If they have played the game according to the rules they should be in the clear and there will be nothing uncovered that might cause prominent citizens to take the stand and refuse to waive immunity.

On the other hand, it is our idea, after some years observation, that the disturbance feared by financiers and big business magnates is that which revolves around a possibility of disclosing crooked manipulation and downright criminality. An inquiry conducted as the munitions investigation, might conceivably cause

HOME CLUBS RALLY DAY ON JUNE 28TH

NEW PARK RALLY SITE

Wilson-Ledbetter Park has been tendered Home Demonstration Clubs of Milam County, for their annual rally day to be held in Cameron on June 28.

Thus far those in charge of the office of Miss Bertha Fae Strange, home agent, were unable to announce a speaker for the occasion. It had been planned to have an address on the coming Centennial Celebration.

Home Demonstration Club members, their families and invited guests will be present for the annual rally. It will be the first gathering held in the newly completed park.

The rally day is an annual event for rural people. The program for the day includes a tour of the Curry Home Demonstration Clubs. The demonstrators are: Mrs. Jesse Coward, wardrobe demonstrator; Mrs. John Hause, yard demonstrator; Mrs. L. J. Boatright, pantry demonstrator.

MUCH RENTAL MONEY YET DUE FARMERS

Only about half of the rental checks due Milam county farmers have been received at the office of George Banzhaf, county agent, he announced Tuesday.

There remains to be distributed rental checks on about 700 new contracts and many of the large rentals, he said. Up to Wednesday a total of 2695 checks had been received and they represented a total of $136,-029.67.

First checks on new contracts were not expected in the office here for about 30 days. This means considerable delay in getting these remittances to the farmers.

Rentals come in two checks, usually some 30 to 60 days apart. The parity payment which represents one and a half cent per pound of the total allowable lent, less 40 per cent, is the last of the bounty to farmers who raise cotton.

Lower prices prevail in the quotations at Stewart Grocery in Cameron.

CONGRESSMAN CROSS WILL NOT RUN AGAIN

Congressman O. H. Cross will not be a candidate for congress next year, according to a published story Wednesday in Waco newspapers, quoting J. M. Pitillo of that city who says he has received a telegram from the congressman saying he would not be a candidate for any office next year.

Pitillo telegraphed Congressman Cross asking him if there were foundation for rumors that he would run for governor. In his reply Mr. Cross said he would not be a candidate for any office.

His retirement from politics, if true, came as a surprise and wthout explanation. He went to Congress in 1928 when Tom Conally entered the Senate.

Milam county was placed in the 11th district on January 1 and Mr. Cross became congressman for this county six months ago.

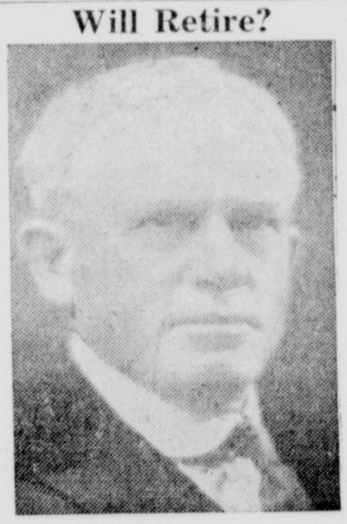
CAMERON BANK MAN IS SEVERELY HURT IN WRECK

Will Retire?



O. H. CROSS

RICHARDS SUCCEEDS COOK IN NIGHT JOB

George Richards, former deputy city marshal, has been appointed night marshal and fire marshal of Cameron to succeed Will Cook, veteran officer of the city.

Mr. Richards has taken up his duties with the City administration and Mr. Cook has retired after years of faithful service.

Mr. Cook has been with the city government through a number of administrations and has a record of good service to the city. His leaving the department is due, it is said, to friction over the administration of police affairs. It was said, however, that Mr. Cook was not involved in the matter, but merely the victim.

Mr. Richards was given approval by the Police and Fire Committee and named by the council for the place. He has served the city in this capacity before and is regarded as an efficient officer.

Judge Lattimore To Speak Friday

Judge O. S. Lattimore will speak at a gathering of Baptist Laymen in Milam county Friday evening in Rockdale.

The meeting will be held at the First Baptist Church and all Laymen of the county are urged to attend.

E. O. Lengert, warrant and bond buyer for the Citizens National Band, and brother of Miss Ruby Lingert, also of the local bank, is in Colgin's hospital in Waco, gravely injured as the result of a car crash at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Lengert was on his way to Cameron from Dallas, according to W. O. Newton, vice president, of the bank. As his car approached the Elm Mott Community where the roads divide, another car was carelessly driven into the path of his machine. He had no time to apply the brakes or otherwise try to avoid the crash.

His right hip was badly crushed and he has several bad cuts about the face and head. Lengert's injuries are such that months will be required for recovery.

About a year ago Oxsheer Smith, president of the bank, was critically injured in a car crash on the same highway. He never completely recovered.

J. E. TYSON IN FATAL CRASH

Five are dead, two former Milam county residents, as the result of an automobile wreck on the Dallas highway north of Waco Sunday afternoon.

The dead:

J. E. Tyson, 70, Dallas
Mrs. J. E. Tyson, 65, Dallas
Mrs. A. O. Hammer, Waco.
Mrs. W. M. Meyers, Peoria, Tex.
Mrs. J. D. Wiley, Austin

J. E. Tyson, a native citizen of Milam county, was born at Maysfield. He was county clerk of Milam county for four years, the only candidate who ever defeated Judge Jeff T. Kemp. In 1904 Judge Kemp defeated Tyson for that office. Mrs. Tyson was the daughter of Rev. Nelms who served as pastor of the Maysfield Methodist church for several years.

Mr. Tyson, though fatally injured, was able to direct the ambulance driver to the homes of Waco relatives. He died early Monday morning. Mrs. Tyson survived the wreck but died shortly after reaching a hospital in Waco. They were buried in Waco Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyson and friends were on their way to Galveston to spend a vacation. While driving the highway the rear wheels of their car slipped over the edge of the road. Mr. Tyson said he was attempting to get the car back on the road and did not see another machine approaching rapidly from Waco. The cars crashed head on.

Mrs. Hammer and Mrs. Meyers were dead when taken from the wreckage.

E. C. MARTIN TO BE RALLY DAY SPEAKER

E. C. Martin, Boys Club Agent for Texas, in Demonstration Club work, will be the principal speaker here on June 28 when the annual rally day is held.

Mr. Martin is now in Washington attending the national meet of the Demonstration Club delegates.

Sunday School Lesson

by HENRY-RADCLIFFE

CHRISTIAN LIBERTY

International Sunday School Lesson For June 30, 1935.

GOLDEN TEXT: "It is good not to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor to do anything whereby thy brother stumbleth."—Rom. 14:21.

(Lesson Text: Romans 14:13-21; 1 Cor. 8:9-13)

Members of the early Christian church were drawn from two classes. Many of them were Jews, who through their lives had been accustomed to obey the ceremonial law of Judaism. Other Christians were Gentiles, having no such previous religious ritual, and therefore not subject in any way to the rules of conduct for the jews.

In some the question as to the observance of the old customs of the Jews caused discussion in the Christian church. Many of the Jewish converts considered that they should still adhere to the manner of life practiced by their fathers. Other Christians considered that they had been entirely freed from the legalistic code of the Jews and that this should no longer be allowed to regulate their ordinary affairs of life. In his epistle to the Romans Paul took up in the first eleven chapters great doctrinal subjects, but beginning with the twelfth chapter he sought to give them a practical application in the everyday life of those to whom he wrote.

Paul presented to those who felt that they had been completely emancipated the desirability, perhaps, of still following some of the laws if by so doing the strength of others in the new faith could be strengthened. "Nothing is unclean of itself," said Paul, "save that to him that accounted anything to be unclean, to him it is unclean." The individual conscience should be the guide of conduct for each person, although it should be borne in mind that while it is always wrong to violate one's conscience it may not always be right just to follow where conscience does not disturb.

In an effort to keep down criticism among members who differed in opinion as to conduct, Paul sought to discourage human beings acting as judges for their fellow men. "What a remarkable contrast there is between the true Christian's use of power of judgment and that of the worldly-wise!" says G. Campbell Morgan. "These pass judgment upon others from the standpoint of personal preferences and convictions. The true Christian passes judgment upon his own conduct, from the standpoint of the well-being of his brethren. The one is self centered, dogmatic, ignorant, and often unjust. The other is love-centered, self-denying, intelligent, and always merciful."

"Nothing grows upon me so much with the lengthening of life as the sum of the difficulties, or rather the impossibilities, with which we are beset whenever we are tempted to take to ourselves the functions of the Eternal Judge," says Gladstone, "except in reference to ourselves, where judgment is committed to us. The shades of the rainbow are not so nice, and the sands of the seashore are not such a multitude, as are the subtle, shifting, blinding forms of thought and of circumstances that go to determine the character of us and of our acts. But there is One that seeth plainly and judgeth righteously."

The Kingdom of God, Paul pointed out, "is not eating and drinking but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit." While many things may be permissible and safe to many people, there would remain some who were not so strong but that following these practices might result in harm. Therefore, "it is good not to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth." In effect, Paul realized that many harmless practices could be followed by good Christians without their being hurt, while these same activities overindulged in by the weak would do the latter terrible damage, therefore he recommended that the strong abstain in order not to encourage the weak into a practice which might be harmful.

"Amid the difficulties, perhaps the impossibility, of advancing any strict and literal solution which shall be applicable to all cases, there is one thing unquestionable—and that is the concern which all ought to feel for the moral safety of others beside themselves," says Thomas Chalmers. "Grant of the strong Christian that he may pass unscathed through the festive parties of the ungodly, and perhaps even leave the savor of what is good in the midst of them; or grant that without injury to his own spirit, he may lend his occasional presence to certain haunts of public or fashionable entertainments—it must not be forgotten that many are the weak Christians, who, if led to premature imitation of his example, would inevitably perish among the surrounding contaminations of an atmosphere which they could not breathe and yet live."

In the Corinthian church the situation was somewhat different than at Rome. Here the difference between members of the church arose as to the right of a Christian to eat of food which had been offered to idols. In that country it was customary for a host to serve to its guests parts of an animal which had been sacrificed, and to some Christians the eating of this flesh seemed to participate in the worship of the pagan diety to whom the sacrifice had been made. While Paul did not think that the meat offered to idols was different from any other meat, still, in sympathy for the weaker member of the church, he was willing to sacrifice his own liberty to eat such meat in order not to harm the welfare of his brother who would be misled by such eating.

"I may feel at perfect liberty to drink wine," says Marcus Dods. "Had I only myself to consider and knowing that my temptation does not lie that way, I might use wine regularly or as often as I felt disposed to enjoy a needed stimulant. I may feel quite convinced in my own mind that morally I am not one whit the worse for doing so. But I cannot determine whether I am to indulge myself or not without considering the effect my conduct will have on others. There may be among my friends some who know that their temptation does not lie that way, and whose conscience bids them altogether refrain. If by my example such persons are encouraged to silence the voice of their own conscience, then I incur the incalculable guilt of helping to destroy a brother for whom Christ died."

When the prohibition amendment was repealed President Roosevelt appealed to the nation for co-operation in the administration of the new system and to avoid excessive drinking. Among other things he said: "I ask especially that no state shall by law or otherwise authorize the return of the saloon either in its old form or in some modern guise. The policy of the government will be to see to it that the social and political evils that have existed in the pre-prohibition era shall not be revived nor permitted again to exist. We must remove forever from our midst the menace of the bootlegger and such others as would profit at the expense of good government, law and order. I trust in the good sense of the American people that they will not bring upon themselves the curse of excessive use of intoxicating liquors, to the detriment of health, morals and social integrity. The objective we seek through a national policy is the education of every citizen towards a greater temperence throughout the nation."

POLITICAL ELECTRIC SERVICE

. . is knocking at your door!

Shall Your Local Electric Service Become a Federal Political Football?

Unless the Wheeler-Rayburn Bill, now pending in Congress, is defeated your local electric service and rates will be regulated and controlled by political officeholders in Washington.

Instead of private ownership with its local control, local citizenship, local taxpaying, it would be "remote control" by Federal commissions and bureaus.

It would make of the electric industry with its half a million employees, a political football, to be kicked about, with the electric user the loser.

Taxes have already been increased more than a billion and a half dollars during the past twelve months. Additional Federal bureau activities mean even greater tax burdens . . . FOR YOU!

The Wheeler-Rayburn Bill would not only end local regulation and increase cost of government but it would greatly handicap and hinder your local electric company. It would abolish the holding companies which have been one of the most important factors in the building of our excellent record of rate reductions and good service.

Because of the drastic provisions of the Bill many of the local companies would not be able to survive and government ownership would undoubtedly follow. It would be the first step toward national socialism.

As in all such socialistic ventures, the people would pay the bills in higher rates, poor service, or in higher taxes . . . sometimes all three. To create more jobs and bring back better days government must encourage private ownership; investments must be protected; individual rights must not be destroyed.

If you are in accord, you can help by writing to your Senators and Representative in Washington, advising them you are opposed to the Wheeler-Rayburn Bill.

TIRES MAY LOOK ALIKE ON THE OUTSIDE ON THE INSIDE THEY ARE DIFFERENT

HEAT on the inside created by friction is the main cause of blowouts. Firestone Tires are different on the inside—they are built with the patented extra process of Gum-Dipping that soaks every cord and insulates every strand with pure liquid rubber, preventing internal friction and heat. No other make of tire is Gum-Dipped.

Firestone performance records again emphasize the undisputed evidence that Firestone Tires are not only blowout-proof, but give greatest protection against skidding. There are three questions and answers that will solve the problem of what tires to buy:

QUESTION 1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

ANSWER—Recent tests by a leading University show that Firestone High Speed Non-Skid Tires stop a car 15% quicker than any other of the leading makes. For eight consecutive years Firestone Tires have been on the winning car in the dangerous Pike's Peak Race where a skid means death. This is undisputed evidence that Firestone gives car owners greatest protection against skidding.

QUESTION 2—"Are they blowout-proof?"

ANSWER—Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have the most amazing records for being blowout-proof of any tires ever built. In the gruelling 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis, May 30th, every one of the 33 cars was equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Not one of the 33 drivers had any tire trouble of any kind.

Ab Jenkins drove his 5,000 pound car on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires over the hot salt beds of Utah, 3,000 miles at 127.2 miles per hour, with temperatures as high as 120°, without tire trouble of any kind. These are most amazing proofs of blowout protection ever known.

QUESTION 3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

ANSWER—Firestone High Speed Tires not only give you more than 50% longer wear, but also lowest cost per mile due to the tough, wear-resisting tread built with higher shoulders and a wider, flatter contour. This rugged tread is held securely to the Gum-Dipped cord body by Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of cords under the tread, a special construction feature not used in any other tire. Unequaled mileage records by thousands of car owners add undisputed evidence of longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

You Always Get Better Quality at No Higher Price when You Buy a Firestone Tire with the Firestone Name and Guarantee

1 University tests show Firestone Tires stop cars 15 to 25% quicker.

2 Gum-Dipped cords give greater blowout protection. Gum-Dipping is not used in other tires.

3 Wider, flatter tread gives more than 50% longer non-skid wear.

Washington News For Milam County Farmers

From Cameron Herald's Washington Bureau

OFFSET THE TARIFF.

LOWDEN FOR BENEFITS.

STUDY FARM PROBLEMS.

THE FARM INCOME.

Frank O. Lowden, former Republican governor of Illinois, and a candidate for his party's nomination for the Presidency, was one of the principal speakers at the famous "grass roots" conference held last week.

Of interest to farmers is his declaration about "maintaining a just balance between industry and agriculture" because he speaks, we presume, for the leaders of the Republican party in the ten states that were represented. Mr. Lowden got down to the meat when he said "That balance can be maintained only if, so long as we have a protective tariff for benefit of industry, we give to agriculture corresponding benefits for the portion of the products of the soil which go into domestic consumption."

While there may be difference of opinion as how to accomplish this the line of reasoning that is followed by Mr. Lowden is the same as that adopted by Secretary Wallace. The essence of it is that the tariff gives to industry an unfair advantage over agriculture, which must be offset by a similar advantage to agriculture. In both instances, one can easily see, the ultimate consumer gets it in the neck and there are critics of the idea that two wrongs (as far as the consumer is concerned) can make a right.

In fact there are intelligent men in the country today who maintain that the farmer would be better off if he were given back his world markets. This, they say, could be accomplished by permitting other nations to sell us in order to buy from us.

These people point out that while it required 84 million acres at average yields to supply our export farm trade in 1920-21, the demand was met by 39 million acres in 1933-34.

Chester C. Davis, in his report for 1934, as administrator of the AAA, hails the use of the referendum method for obtaining direct farm opinion on the agricultural programs being pursued.

He points out that in three referendums in 1934 more than 2,400,000 producers of cotton, tobacco and corn and hogs gave an 85 percent vote in favor of continuing the adjustment measures. His report does not include the recent wheat referendum, in which nearly half a million growers favored the wheat program by a 7 to 1 vote.

Mr. Davis insists that restricted production will not be the main point of a permanent policy for agriculture, since lasting improvements must be bound up with "increased production and consumption of agricultural products." He thinks, however, that adjusted production must be accepted until foreign markets can be secured for our surpluses.

We call attention to these statements of Mr. Davis not necessarily because they are righ tor wrong, but because they are right or wrong ,but every farmer who reads to study the questions they present and make up his mind one way or the other. This column, as has been stated time and again, has no intention of championing any agricultural program but will try to encourage discussion on the part of the growers of crops affected.

Mr. Davis says that in 1932 farm prices were 35 per cent below the ratio they had maintained to industrial prices for the 20 years before 1930 and that, in 1934, they were still 25 per cent below that relation.

He does not think that the American farmer is getting his share of the national income, although 1934 was 21 per cent ahead of 1933 and 41 per cent above 1932. Figures cited show that in 1900 the 36 per cent of our population engaged in agriculture got 20.5 per cent of the national income; in 1932 he records, this dropped to only 7.5 per cent.

"If in 1934 the farm population had received the same per capita share of the national income it had received in the seven decades prior to 1920," says his reports, "the farm share would have been 13 per cent" and to attain this proportion "the farm income would have had to be from one-fourth to one-third greater than it really was."

R. L. BATTE OPPOSED TO OLD AGE PENSION AMENDMENT PASSAGE

By R. L. Batte

There are 1723 persons in Milam County who are 65 years old - and over according to Census figures recently released in Washington by the United States Department of Commerce and all these people will be eligible to receive the Old Age Pension if the Amendment to the Texas Constitution is adopted by the people in the election of August 24th.

The cost of the old age pensions will aggregate $42,000,000 for the entire state as there are 232,459 people in Texas who have reached the age of 65, and under the provisions of the Constitutional Amendment they may be granted old age relief from the state treasury not to exceed $15 per month or $180 per year.

New and additional taxes must be levied and collected to pay for the pensions. A magician may pull a white rabbit out of a hat but taxes cannot be extracted from thin air. The men and women who work for a living are going to have to foot the old age pension bill.

If the old age pension amendment is adopted every person who draws a salary or wages or gets his living from farming and other pursuits will be taxed an equivalent of $20 each per year. Government statistics show that there are 11,192 men and 2096 women gainfully occupied in Milam county and upon them will fall the burden of old age pension costs.

Two arguments were successfully used to pass the pension plan thru the Texas Legislature. The most appealing reason was the contention that there were a sufficient number of old people in Texas who could vote without a poll tax receipt to defeat any Legislator who voted against the pension measure and it passed with only a few dissenting votes. The claim was freely made that the retirement from industry of old people on State pensions would create jobs for younger workers. The weaknes of this argument is revealed when it is considered that only 3.9 per cent of those gainfully occupied in Texas have reached the pension age of 65 years.

Government figures show that out of nearly 50,000 Texas school teachers only 394 are 65 years old or over. The transportation and communications industries in Texas employ 163,000 workers and only 2,556 are old enough to be eligible for the pension and similar conditions apply to practically every other occupation and profession in the state.

Car Found May Be Property Oklahoma Sheriff, Believed

A puzzling developent has followed finding of an abandoned car on the great northern highway near Gause.

A 1934 Chevrolet coach is being held in Cameron by Sheriff Kennedy. It was found near Gause by Deputy Sheriff Dan Gunn and Constable B. F. Bailey on June 6.

Shortly after the discovery of the car Sheriff Kennedy received notice from L. J. Davis, an Oklahoma sheriff, that his car was missing. The license number on the car found near Gause is the same as that listed by the Oklahoma officer, but the color and engine number of the car do not tally with the listing received from the reporting sheriff.

Louisa's Letter

HAPPINESS DEPENDS UPON THE INDIVIDUAL

Not long ago, I had occasion to call on an old woman for whom I felt great sympathy. She seemed so alone, no near relatives living in the same town, and she had a very small home, all of which she rented out, excepting one small room. This rent money provided her with groceries and the few clothes she had.

To my amazement I found her very cheerful and happy. I told her that I thought it was wonderful that a person who had always been accustomed to a comfortable income and her own place could be so content with strange people over-running her home and with so little money.

She laughed quietly and said: "My dear, haven't you yet learned that the matter of happiness depends on the person and not with what they have or have not? I was happy when I had things with which I could share with those not so fortunate. I enjoyed the privacy of my home and the quiet hours spent with my books, but now, instead of that, I enjoy these people with whom I live. They have become my friends and I share their confidences. I help them in many little ways and they help me.

"At least I am never lonely. I haven't time to be. My housekeeping is very simple with only one room to clean. If I become sick there are three or four who are anxious to wait on me. So I am really very happy and comfortable. My old friends are still my friends—they come to see me and take me for a ride. So why shouldn't I be happy with so many new interests combined with so many new ones."

Of course she is happy. She is the kind of person who will find happiness anywhere. Her old friends still love her and come to see her because they enjoy being with her. If she had become embittered by her reverses and spent her time bemoaning her sad fate and envying the material things of her old friends, I dare say they would have stopped calling on her long ago. No one enjoys a recital of woes and sorrows no matter how fond they are of a person, but how inspiring it is to be with a person who is always in a good humor.

This is a heritage we should try to hand down to our children. If we can teach them to be cheerful, courteous and optimistic we are really handing them a platter on which is heaped popularity, good friends and a happy life.

Yours,
LOUISA.

Farm Club Notes

By BERTHA FAE STRANGE

The Reason Why You Are Too Fat

From a survey made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture regarding the Vegetable diet of the average American, the following list shows some of the vegetables we eat yearly: 3 bushels of Irish potatoes, 15 pounds of cabbage, 1 head cauliflower, 11 1-2 pounds of onions, 11 1-2 pounds of corn, 18 pounds of tomatoes, 37 1-2 pounds of sweet potatoes, 6 1-2 pounds of lettuce, 5 1-5 pounds cantaloupes, and a heal watermelon. If we classify these vegetables into leafy, starchy, other and garden fruit, look what the proportions are: leafy vegetables 22 1-2 pounds, starchy vegetables 198 pounds, other vegetables 13 1-2 pounds, and garden fruit 33 12 pounds. We are eating five or six times as much starchy food as of the other classes. Starches are fattening, hence the difficulty of keeping a trim figure.

WHAT YOU CAN DO THIS MONTH IN THE GARDEN

Cut Berry Plants Now.

As soon as the berry crop is harvested, cut off the old growth at the ground line. If the current season shoots are too thick, thin out to 3 or 4 shoots per plant. By topping blackberries at 3 feet in height, side branching is encouraged and the plants resemble miniature trees. Picking and cultivations are made much easier by handling the plants in this manner.

Don't Forget Blackeyed Peas.

Plant blackeyed or cream peas now for July snap beans. They will come in handy and taste "so good" along about then. As soon as the potatoes and onions are dug, follow immediately with peas. Later, after the vines have produced, they may be turned under to restore nitrogen to the soil.

HINTS FOR HOME GARDENERS

Get the Full Benefit of Your Tomato Fertilizer.

Where 400 to 800 pounds per acre of fertilizer is used for tomatoes, there is usually a part still left unconsumed in the soil after the tomato crop is harvested. If moisture is plentiful, such crops as sweet potatoes (from early vines), peas, peanuts, or even livestock feed may be planted. An acre of cowpeas turned under is equal to about 250 pounds of nitrate of soda. This is a good time to get cheap cowpea feltilizer.

Storing Onions and Potatoes.

If best results are expected by storing potatoes, only potatoes of good quality should be stored. For the same reason, double onions and thick necked onions with tops that do not fall over, should not be placed in storage, but are more likely to begin to dry rot quickly if damaged tubers are among those placed in storage. Potatoes should be placed in the shade a few days after digging to allow them to dry. They should then be moved carefully into storage. Be sure that the skin is thoroughly dried before storing.

The places where the potatoes or onions are to be stored should be clean and thoroughly ventilated so as to to allow an air current through the house at all times. If the storage chamber is an outhouse, cut several holes in each end of the house, both top and bottom, to allow for air circulation. False floors of small poles or slats held six inches or more from the bottom of the structure will insure better circulation of air. It is best to spread the potatoes or onions out on the false floor, but where this is impractical and the potatoes and onions are piled together, allowance for air circulation should be made. It is best to keep the storage house dark to keep the products from turning green.

Save Your Own Seed.

I know of a superb king of English pea that has been "in the family" for forty years. It is unnamed, but seed have been saved each year and it is highly prized because it is prolific and has an unusual flavor. It is true that home selection and saving of seed results in having plants adapted to loeal conditions. I know some gardners in Texas who sell a considerable quantity of seed to their neighbors who know that particular strain or variety. Here are a few hints on some of the most common vegetables in the garden.

Beans and Peas.

Mark a few of the best plants, allow the pods to ripen for seed. When the entire crop is matured, harvest the beans and treat the seed with highlife (carbon disulphide). A pint of highlife into an open pan and place the pan on top of the beans in the barrel. Use a cover on the barrel while fumigating. Keep the lid on the barrel for 12 hours, open and ventillate, then store the beans or peas shelled or in the hull in a dry place until planting time.

Cucumbers or Squash.

Select fruits of desired characteristics and allow to ripen fully on the vine. Split the ripe fruit, scrape out the seed and pulp and wash the seed until clean, pouring off the refuse and light floating seed. Spread out the washed seed in the sunshine, not over two seed deep in thickness. Dry from two to five days. Be sure seed are dry before storing.

Tomatoes.

Cut tomatoes in halves, place in barrel and allow to ferment for two days. The seed will settle to the bottom and the pulp will rise to the surface. Stir the mixture twice daily. On the second day pour off the pulp and wash seed, spread out and dry.

Bonds Are Fixed In Theft Cases; Two Men Are Held

Jack Crosthwait, white, and Robert Kelly, negro, waived examining trial before Justice Womack Brashear this week and bond was fixed in each case.

They were arrested here some weeks ago by Sheriff R. M. Kennedy charged with felony theft in connection with the disappearance of oil well casing from the Coffield properties at Rockdale several weeks ago. Crosthwaite was charged with two cases and his bond fixed at $375. The negro was charged with only one case and his bond fixed at $750.

Why this difference in bail was made is not explained. Crosthwaite and the negro, riding a truck were followed into Cameron by Mr. Coffield on Sunday, having telephoned the sheriff.

Sells Borrowed Cow and Faces Charges

Lottie Smoots, negro woman, is out of jail under a $300 bond for appearance in County Court. She is charged with selling a cow.

According to Sheriff Kennedy who arrested the woman, she had sold a cow borrowed from a neighbor for milking. Selling borrowed cows is not considered ethical this season it was explained.

"Typical Mother" Celebrates Jelly Week

ALONG with a few million other folks, Mrs. Fletcher M. Johnson of Irvington-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., recently elected America's typical mother by the Golden Rule Foundation, will observe National Jelly-Making Week, June 17 to 22, by making a batch of her favorite jelly.

As a typical mother with a typical family, Mrs. Johnson has had a typical problem to face. Most of her six children and fourteen grandchildren had different favorite jellies. "I used to begin early in the season," she says, "and make jelly all summer long, as each fruit ripened, to be able to please my entire family. Now that my children have grown, I can make my own favorite."

Her own daughter having won high honors in the Girl Scouts, Mrs. Johnson is delighted that the Girl Scouts, as well as the Camp Fire Girls, 4 H Clubs and other civic and educational organizations, are participating in the celebration of National Jelly-Making Week.

Here is Mrs. Johnson's recipe for strawberry jelly:

Strawberry Jelly

4 cups (2 lbs.) juice
8 cups (3½ lbs.) sugar
2 tablespoons strained lemon juice
1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare juice, crush thoroughly or grind about 3 quarts fully ripe berries. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Squeeze and strain juice from 1 medium lemon. Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin at once. Makes about 12 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

And here is another of her favorites:

Blackberry Jelly

4 cups (2 lbs.) berry juice

Her jelly tastes just like ripe strawberries!

2 tablespoons lemon juice
8 cups (3½ lbs.) sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare juice, crush thoroughly or grind about 3 quarts fully ripe berries. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Squeeze and strain juice from 1 medium lemon. Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin at once. Makes about 12 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

A Problem for Medical Men.

Scientific physicians continue to make startling announcements as to the effect of their discoveries upon disease and it seems within the realm of possibility that before this century is over that man will have moved toward eventual triumph over germs, bacilli and other ilk that prey upon human beings.

At the same time, not much progress is being made in bringing the best medical skill and hospital treatment within the range of the purse of the average citizen. Here is, it seems to us, a challenge to doctors, nurses, surgeons and all those who labor in the field of medical science. Unless they want others to attack the problem it behooves them to attempt its solution upon a basis that is satisfactory to them and fail to the public at large.

A Check Up On Accidents.

Deaths on American Highways are increasing and the people of Cameron are keenly alive to the danger. There is hardly a week in Milam county that some serious accident does not occur, and, unfortunately, every few months somebody is killed.

Any number of other accidents happen, but are not heard of because of the fortunate escape of the participants and because of the fact that some of them happen in isolated rural communities. It is important that an accurate record of automobile mishaps be kept, both with an eye on future driving by those involved and to discover weak points in traffic rules.

A few states, and some cities, are now keeping card records on all automobile accidents. They are classified and have resulted in the elimination of dangerous points in the streets. Besides, an automobile driver who has been in one accident, will be more careful if he is aware that his record is on file.

Inasmuch as figures tend to show an increase of accidents on rural roads it appears likely that the states should maintain a record of all accidents, with the idea of improving blind spots in the highways and to discover consistently careless drivers, and then eliminate them by refusing to license them as drivers.

Wise African Prince

We read in the newspapers that Peter Koinange, son of the African chieftain of Kenya colony, has taken a degree at an Ohio university and is almost ready to go back to the Kikuyu tribe, 1,000,000 farmers and herdsmen ruled by his father.

The young prince has the proper idea. He says his father has been handicapped in his relations with the whites and that he wanted to learn the white man's ways in order to be better prepared to represent his people in the future. The young African has been in this country eight years, working his way through college.

We hasten to commend his example and foresight. The influence that this one man might exert in Africa cannot be predicted. If he were assisted, for example, by a few thousand American trained Negroes, who for something like love of their former home would go back to the African area to render service to their people, there is no telling how much good would be accomplished.

The Way to Have Peace

The world has had some excellent object lessons in the past few years about how little the talk about peace will accomplish in preserving peace. Of course, the Japanese are giving the globe the premier example of the importance of objection not backed by powder and Italy appears on the sidelines, about ready to go and do likewise.

Maybe in the course of a few years the people of the world will realize that if they expect to have world peace, with the observance of the rights of others, they must have armed forces ready to pounce upon a violator of pacts of peace, or other treaties stating definite rights and obligations.

For example, if Great Britain and the United States had joined navies when Japan took her first step in Manchuria and announced that they would be used, if necessary, to maintain the open door in China and their territorial integrity of that country there would have been no occasion to use them. Japan would have known just how far she could go.

It Would Be Different

Something like 217 missionaries in Japan, American stock we are advised have raised their voices against naval manoeuvres in the Pacific, the immigration act and indiscreet declarations on the part of public officials which give offense to friendly nations.

Now here is something! What do you think would happen if the missionaries, now laboring in Japan, would try something like that in the island empire? What would occur if they decided to protest Japan's course in China, her demand for an equal navy and her withdrawal from the League of Nations?

The answer is that their protestations would have about the same effect in Japan as in this country and that the authors would either be expelled, put in jail or else harried by some of the patriotic organizations that, in the past, have not hesitated to attack ex-premiers of the island empire.

Baldwin's Amazing Speech.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin now become Premier of Great Britain, says that close collaboration between the British Empire and the United States would be the "greatest security against war" because "the combined power of their navies, the potential manpower and the immediate economic power—by refusal to trade or lend money—would be a sanction that no power on earth, however strong, would dare face."

Mr. Baldwin admitted that he was dreaming, that his dream might never come to pass but that "some day and sometime those who follow us may see to it that the peace of the world is guaranteed by those who speak our tongue."

There is a lot of food for thought in his words. While the proposal of an alliance is not outright the idea is there. This country would not enter any such an affair to cover the entire world at this time but why should not the two nations try to get together on the problems of the Pacific?

Japan is generally regarded as a threat to peace in the Far East and as a challenger to the rights of the rest of the world in that area. If the United States and Great Britain formulated and publicly announced principles that they stood ready to defend in the Far East it is very probable that peace in that section of the world would be assured for years to come. Even Japan could not hope to successfully polish off the combination.

A Word About Books

The Herald would like to see more books read in Cameron. Just how it can be accomplished escapes us. One good suggestion is the formation of a neighborhood book club, each member of which obligates to buy a book each month, and all members having the privilege of reading the books of other members.

A modern library in Cameron may be impossible but that is no reason why our people should not take steps to furnish good reading matter to our people. Let's not wait for the impossible. The prime purpose of a library is to foster reading and study and it can be done without much overhead expense if people really want books.

Individual books have been known to change the entire lives of people. A good biography, a fascinating novel, or a story of travel alike stimulate the mind and afford pleasure to those who read. Parents, in particular, should see that children get an opportunity to read good books.

Congratulations Due

We think that the people of this nation should congratulate the Department of Justice officials and local officers who took part in the hunt for the kidnappers of the Weyerhauser boy.

As soon as the boy was safely at home the hounds of the law took the trail and they were so hot on the criminals that the booty was abandoned and the new evidence given that kidnapping will not pay any crooks in this country.

No Use To Argue

The argument between industrial organizations and labor leaders over whether hours will be increased and wages cut now that the provisions of the codes have lapsed may as well be ended .Regardless of all the talk you can put it down in your book that wages will be cut and hours lengthened.

For that reason we take little stock in the idea advanced by Hon. Harper Sibley, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce who thinks that no benefits derived from the NRA will be ignored and that self-regulation of business will be more effective than government regulation. It may be that we are all wrong and that the eminent mogul is only talking about the benefits that accrued to business.

EAGLES AND COMETS PLAY HERE SUNDAY

The Cameron XXX Pearl Comets will open the second half of the Cen-Tex cup race at the Lawless Green Field Sunday at 3:30 with their old rivals, the Rogers Eagles. Of the 54 teams entered in the cup race, the 12 strongest clubs have been picked to play in Class A. The Comets, Burlington Bearcats, Rosebud, Rogers, Jarrell and Temple play in the Southern section and the winner will play the winner of the northern section for the league championship. Henderson Walker and Doug Willmas represented the Comets at the league meeting in Temple Tuesday night to draw plans for the Class A play off. The entire schedule wasn't completed, but it is definitely known that the Comets play Rogers here Sunday and play Burlington at Burlington on June 30.

Manager Henderson Walker has called a meeting of all the players of the club for Friday night at 8:30 at the court house for the election of a field manager to direct the play of the team on the field. Walker will continue as business manager and player, but asked to be relieved of his duties as field manager because he feels that his part in the Comet outfield keeps him too far from the pitcher and scene of action to render the best managerial service.

Farm Club Notes

"Necessity is the mother of invention," according to Mrs. John Hause, yard demonstrator for the Curry Home Demonstration Club.

"To make our home more sanitary we underpinned the house with the ends of apple boxes and with just a few more our improvement will be complete. The shrubs will soon grow to cover this underpinning and the chickens can no longer go under the house," Mrs. Hause states.

"To make my stepping stone walk, I dug rectangler holes about 10 by 14 inches and 5 inches deep, every place I wanted a stone. I then filled in the holes with a mixture of four parts sand and one part cement. After drying the walk was level and well set in the ground," Mrs. H. H. Hartsfield, yard demonstrator for Maysfield Home Demonstration Club recently told a group of visitors.

"I pepered the inside of my closet with roli of left over ceiling paper," Mrs. Tom Floyd, Wardrobe Demonstrator for Maysfield Home Demonstration Club told the group of Robertson county visitors on their tour of Milam county. "Since my closet was so dark, and the white paper gives more light and keeps out the dust," Mrs. Floyd states.

"I sold pop corn to get paint to refinish the furniture and get the draperies for my room," Ruth Jennings, wardrobe Demonstrator for the Sharp 4-H Club recently reported. "I had just an old corner and no place for my clothes. Now I have a rod for my dresses, shelf for hats, rack for my shoes and a closet complete even to the papering," Ruth states.

Besides her closet improvement, Ruth has made three dresses, slip and apron for the Boys and Girls Encampment Exhibit, mended 43 garments, kept a personal clothing expense record, added 25 new shrubs to the yard and has canned 94 containers of products for the family pantry shelf.

loss of sleep to the brothers who have been operating under cover to secure profits of doubtful legitimacy.

We quote the following comments, as compiled by the Golden Book in its June issue:

Abraham Lincoln: "This country with its institutions belongs to the people. Whenever they grow weary of the existing government, they can exercise their constitutional right of amending it, or their revolutionary right to dismember or overthrow it."

Thomas Jeffeson: "I hold a little rebellion now and then is a good thing and as necessary in the political world as storms in the physical. What signify a few lives lost in a century or so? The tree of liberty must be refreshed from time to time with the blood of patriots and tyrants."

Woodrow Wilson: "We have forgotten the very principles of our origin if we have forgotten how to object, how to resist, how to agitate, how to pull down and build up, even to the extent of revolutionary practice."

KNIGHTS COLUMBUS BEAT BURLINGTON

The Cameron Knights of Columbus hung around on the small end of a 2 to 0 score in a well played ball game with the Burlington Cubs, until the seventh inning, when a blasting five run rally put the game on ice for the home culb. Here is how it happened.

Leo Hollas, first up singled to left field; both runners were safe when Braden missed Ladis Matula's roller at second base; then George Matula loaded the bases with a single over second. Hollas scored on the first run on Ross' single to right; Rudolph Michalka laid down a bunt which went for a hit scoring L. Matula; Shorty Matula's infield hit and an overthrow at first scored the winning runs, while elusive Rudolph Michalka slipped in as the ball got away from Marek while trying to nab him at third base.

Ladis Matula, on the mound for the Knights, allowed the Cubs only three hits including a double by Buddy Martin, Burlington center fielder, He barely overshadowed Little who stopped the Cameron Club with two blows until the seventh inning, during which Rudy Michalka got his third consecutive hit of th egame.

Negro Held Here In Default Bond Has Walls Record

T. J. Thompson, negro, is being held in default of a $750 bond following his arrest by City Marshal Gene Smith for theft of an auto from Joe Schrieber of Marak.

The negro's trial was held Saturday before Justice Womack Brashear. He was sentenced here two years ago for the theft of an auto belonging to Mrs. Gussie McGregor of the tax collector's office. He served his term and was released from prison on April 15.

City Marshal Smith said the car was stolen at a ball game and that night was driven to the southern part of the county and back again. It was found parked in Santa Fe Town.

The negro was arrested near the Southern Pacific tracks in west Cameron. At first he did not recognize the Marshal and flatly told him he would not go to jail. This was a mistake. The Marshal lost no time in introducing himself and forthwith Thompson became very meek and submissive.

Mrs. Tommie Wright and son Tommie, Jr., of Breckenridge, have returned to their home after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. McCall.

Aunt Sarah Norwood, 92, Dies in Cameron; Was 20 When Lincoln Freed Slave

Sarah Norwood, 92, one of the few remaining slave negroes, and a native of Texas died in Cameron June 11.

She was 20 years old when President Lincoln issued the famous emancipation proclamation that set the slaves free in the south. If she had lived until Wednesday it would have been for her the 72nd observance of that date which since the civil war has been a holiday for negroes in the United States.

Aunt Sarah had lived in Cameron for many years and in her declining days had close contact with her white friends. For a number of years she lived in the Goodhue Wilson home and was with Mrs. Lizzie Wilson, surviving widow of the late pioneer for several years.

Almost three quarters of a century ago she was freed from slavery by the Lincoln proclamation. For years thereafter she continued to live as before the war, with her white family. In the years that have dimmed the momentous days that ended slavery she remained true to the traditions of the old South and was buried in the Cameron colored cemetery secure in the friendship of many not of her race.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of extending to the many friends both white and colored who so tenderly administered to our needs in the passing of our dear mother, Sarah Norwood, our heartfelt thanks. We are especially grateful to our white friends who came in large numbers and brought very beautiful flowers as well as words of encouragement. To the Milam County Undertaking Company, Mrs. L. M. Hughes in charge and to each and everyone for every expression of kindness and sympathy. Each of the churches, irrespective of denomination, remembered us with most beautiful floral offerings. To all we are grateful.

Paris Heard and wife, son and daughter.
Jeff and Mitchell Norwood, sons.
Perryno Heard, grandson.
Rozelle Norwood, granddaughter.

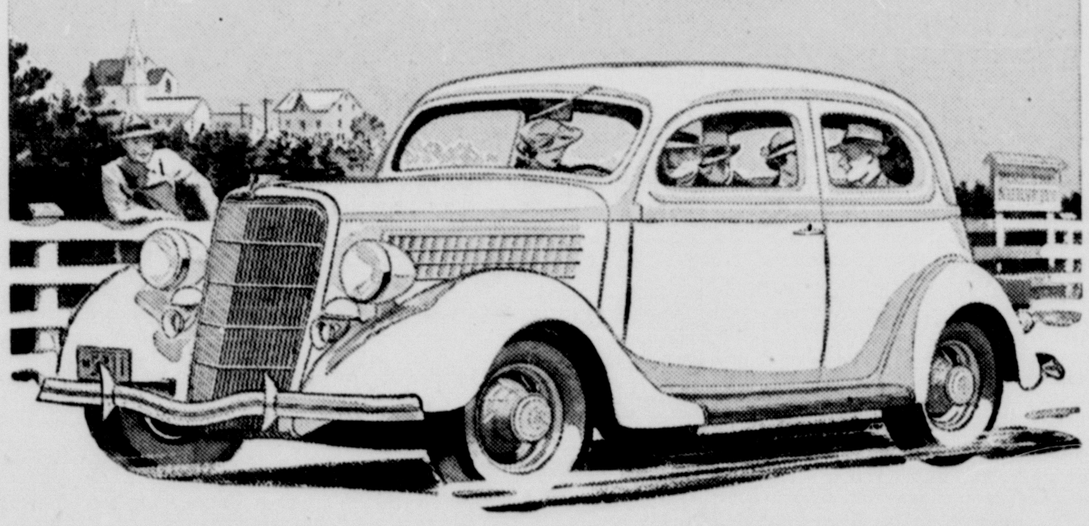
The Universal Car



ONE name comes quickly to mind when you think of "The Universal Car." The description is distinctively Ford. No other car is used by so many millions of men and women in every part of the world. Everywhere it is the symbol of faithful service. . . . That has always been a Ford fundamental. Something new is constantly being added in the way of extra value. Each year the Ford has widened its appeal by increasing its usefulness to motorists. . . . Today's Ford V-8 is more than ever "The Universal Car" because it encircles the needs of more people than any other Ford ever built. Sam Parks, Jr., young 25-year-old Pittsburgh professional, scored an unexpected victory over the cream of the American Golfing crop (minus Lawson Little) as he took first place honors in the National Open tourney at Oakmont, Pa. Parks was not thought of as a winner until the final round, when the continuation of his steady tournament play won for him over brilliant golf players of other tourneys who failed in the final test. Alvin Krueger led the field after the first day's play with a round of 71, the only sub-par showing of the day. Close behind him with a par 72 round was Roland Mackenzie, Washington, who has always listed the tough Oakmont course among his favorites.

The second day found Jimmy Thomson, Pacific Coast shotmaker, ahead of the pack by two strokes, with Krueger two strokes behind. Thomson finished that day just ahead of a rainstorm that wrought havoc with the nerves of the players who started their rounds later. The final day found Parks, continuing his steady play, coming up to tie Thomson in the first round of the day, and clipping a stroke from Thomson's performances in each of the last two nines, winning by that margin—two strokes. Walter Hagen finished in third place with 302, one stroke behind Thomson and three behind the winner.

Soccer, a game that is gaining fast in popularity on this side of the Atlantic, was seen in this country recently played as only the Britains can play it. A Scotish soccer squad has just completed a tour of the Eastern States and Canada in which many games were played with various teams of this continent. The Scottish crew won eleven straight victories over its opponents, and ended with a perfect record as it defeated a select squad at Newark, 4 to 1. Experts say that soccer's popularity over here is only just beginning, and that soon the whole of America will be adopting it just as the Japanese have captured our national sport, baseball.

Sir Malcolm Campbell, who is the present holder of the automobile speed record, has announced his intention of attempting to improve his present mark of 276.816 miles per hour, made at Daytona Beach, Florida, March 7 of this year. Speaking before an advertising club lunch gathering in London, Campbell stated that he may make his attempt at Salt Lake City within the next two months. In explaining the change from his customary plans of using Daytonia as a speedbed, he disclosed that it would be impossible for his car to reach the300-mile speed on the Florida sands, and that his new location is sure to provide for him more perfect conditions than at the unsecure beach at Daytona.

Jim Braddock's startling victory over champ Maxie Baer goes to show that ballyhoo of just a so-so boxer will give said competitor just the confidence needed to start him on the road to victory. Experts contended before the Baer-Braddock set-to that all the talk of Jesse J's sudden ability as a fighter was just what was needed to bring out the cash customers to the bout. As it is Braddock has made them all look sick and is now on top of the boxing world. It is generally rumored that his next opponent will be the winner of the Louis-Carnera battle, scheduled for Wednesday, June 26.

Following her stirring 6-0, 6-4 victory over Mrs. Elsie Pittman in the finals of the St. George's Hill tournament in England, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody saw English betting odds against her chances in the Wimbledon tourney drop from 4 to 1 to 2 to 1. Mrs. Moody showed that she was in good condition for her attempted comeback, as she won easily over her British opponent. She plans one more tournament trial before entering the fist round at Wimbledon. Miss Dorothy Round, top-ranking British star, is at this writing the favorite at 11 to 8.

The United States Davis Cup tennis team is now in England where it will soon undertake to bring back to America the elusive cup. Members of the official party making the trans-oceanic trip were Wilmer Allison, Sidney B. Wood, Jr., John Van Ryn, Gene Mako, and Donald Budge, players; non-playing captain Joseph W. Wear, trainer Harry Hillman, and Mrs. Wood.

At this writing, Babe Ruth is not officially connected with baseball, though rumors go the rounds of managerial jobs which the Babe is said to be considering. During Ruth's 22 seasons in baseball, he amassed a total of no less than 76 records. G. W. Daley, of New York Times, has compiled these records through official statistics including last season. The chief of these follow:

Most home runs—708.
Most home runs in a season—60.
Most runs in a season—177.
Most runs batted in—2,197.
Most bases on balls—2,036.
Most strike-outs—1,306.

To avoid typhoid Dr. W. R. Newton, county health officer, has issued a formula for protecting the lives and health of the people.

Dr. Newton says the easiest and most simple way to protect drinking water would be the use of chlorine of lime or chlorinated lime. This can be put up in five grain capsules by local druggists at small cost. Two of these capsules should completely disinfect fifty gallons of water.

"We feel that this would be a most practical procedure," says Dr. Newton, "in applying chlorine since water quantities can be easily determined. The table printed with this article gives quantities that should be used.

Safeguarding Water Supply

"Drinking water from an unprotected well, pond, lake or cistern, which ha snot been recently tested should be looked upon with suspicion. The cheap and effective method of disinfection as an emergency measure requires the use of chlorine, which may be bought as chlorated lime.

In order to facilitate the process of disinfecting drinking water, local druggists may put chlorinated lime in capsules which may be used according to the following table:

"I would suggest that all people of Milam county, who have not already been rendered immune to typhoid fever report to their doctor for vaccination against typhoid. All children under 7, who have not been rendered immune to diphtheria, should report to their family doctor for vaccination; and everyone who has not already been made immune to smallpox should report to their family doctor for vaccination.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

THE STRONGLY-BUILT CULTIVATOR THAT DOES GOOD WORK IN NARROW OR WIDE ROWS

The John Deere KL is just the right cultivator for you if you want one cultivator that will do high quality work in a variety of row crops. It can be quickly and easily adjusted to any width of row from 30 to 48 inches.

You will like the easy handling of the KL. You can quickly raise or lower rigs, fix depth, space rigs, regulate shovels or sweeps, and dodge in crooked rows—from the seat, without stopping the team. The John Deere lever spread arch holds the rigs rigidly at the width set with the lever.

You'll like the sturdy construction of the KL—axle parts are heavy and strong; the frame holds its shape—will not sag.

Refreshing Relief
When You Need a Laxative

Because of the refreshing relief it has brought them, thousands of men and women, who could afford much more expensive laxatives, use Black-Draught when needed. It is very economical, purely vegetable, highly effective. . . Mr. J. Lester Roberson, well known hardware dealer at Martinsville, Va., writes: "I certainly can recommend Black-Draught as a splendid medicine. I have taken it for constipation and the dull feelings that follow, and have found it very satisfactory."

According to an announcement by the pastor, Rev. T. F. O'Sullivan, the Forty Hours Devotion will take place at St. Michael's, Burlington, from June 23rd to June 25th. It will open on Sunday morning June 23rd at the 7 o'clock Mass. HOUSE UPHOLDS AAA WITH AMENDMENTS

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Amendments intended to protect the new deal's farm program from a supreme court death sentence of "unconstitunality" today swept through the house by a three-to-one majority. The AAA amendments which have been kicked about congressional corridors for months now looked to the senate for final approval.

Opposition there, which last year blocked action on similar legislation governing the handling and distribution of farm products, has lessened and leaders planned to push the revamped bill to an early vote.

Although some republicans, and a few democrats said they doubted the constitutionality of the provision authorizing Wallace to "order" marketing agreements for handlers of a half dozen commodities, they apparently were anxious to retain essentials of the farm adjustment law and willing to leave debatable points to the courts.

Results Count In Advertising; Two Big Sales Made

An advertisement in the Herald last week for the Mauritz-Baldwin Corporation on the new Kerosene Electrolux for rural homes, brought results.

Two more units were placed as the result of this publicity and Mr. Baldwin was well pleased with the results obtained, together with the information to rural homes where refrigeration is as much a need as in the cities.

Rural homes may now have the advantages of refrigeration, Mr. Baldwin says. A model of the new Kerosene Electrolux is now on display in the display room.
